Farming in Concord

For centuries, the Sudbury, Assabet and Concord Rivers have created a rich agricultural environment that has made Concord a center of local food production. Native Americans grew corn along these rivers, and the productivity of this environment later attracted English colonists to establish Massachusetts' first inland settlement at Concord in 1635.

Four Seasons of Agriculture

Annual Food and Ag Events

"Stone Soup Dinner" - A traditional 'all local' evening meal on a Concord Farm, with food cooked by the local community with food donated by area farmers. Tickets are sold throughout the town. September

"Ag Day on the Milldam" - A festive farmers' market on the Milldam in downtown Concord, where the streets are dedicated to the local farm community to display and share their harvest. September
